

feelings as to tender you a little bit of counsel - viz - to keep notes & extract books, & put down everything worthy of notice in one's own way - I often regret many things that I lost in youth, from not having adopted this, which is now my regular practice.

Will you present my compl^{ts} to Mr. Ranyard with many thanks for her obliging notes - and
- begging you never to think that you have given me anything but pleasure instead of trouble as you express it, I remain,

My dear Sir,

Yours very sincerely,

Thos. W. Webb.
