

I enclose something received this morning from Mrs Key - ~~could~~ would it be practicable to have a notice stuck up in our library as to these instruments, referring for details to Westley who might have that price-list put into his hands if anyone should ask? As poor Key was a fellow it strikes me as feasible. I can say nothing about them myself except that Key thought the definition of the best mirrors very fine indeed - & that I knew him.

To be so scrupulously particular about all the appliances that they are sure to be first rate -
In great haste

Very affect.

J. W. Webb

